

BIRD ROUTE NO 1

Bird Route No 1 features 'A Trip Down Wallagoot Lane'. A circular drive, starting at the Kalaru Village Store, covers this route and more.

Driving towards Bega the road winds through rural land and overlooks the vast swamp areas. Turning in to Bird Route No 1 (Wallagoot Lane) the commentary covers the next eight kilometres.

Set the trip meter and start! Observers will need to take into account the time of year and previous rainfall (or lack of) when noting the following sightings. That's why birdwatching is so interesting.

On either side of this first section are paddocks which can be feeding grounds to flocks of Sulphur-crested Cockatoo, Straw-necked and Australian Ibis, Little Ravens, Australasian Magpies (80 at a time) and Galahs. Any pipits?

At 0.6km stop before crossing the bridge. Egrets, Little Pied Cormorant, Black Swan, Musk, Australian Wood and Pacific Black Duck, Grey and Chestnut Teal, Eurasian Coot, Australasian Grebe, Welcome Swallows and martins, or even a Darter and Red-kneed Dotterel may appear here. On the other side of the bridge the tall gum tree is home to the Whistling Kite.

Continue on to the 1.3km reading and stop near a big tree on the left. Did you see the flood marker near the road opposite the farmhouse entry? Walk back to be amazed by the heights.

You are now overlooking what might be pasture, swamp or lake depending on the season, but there is usually something good here. Australian Shelduck, Black-winged Stilt, spoonbills, ibis, ducks, Pacific Heron, cormorants and possibly Pink-eared Duck and Australasian Shoveler, like this corner. Check all the post sitters too! Listen as Stubble Quail may be calling from the pasture below. Watch for the Swamp Harrier.

At the 1.6km mark, beyond the dairy entrance stop near another big tree in summer and find the Dollarbird nest, that's if the Galah has finished with it. White-faced Herons, Black-fronted Dotterels, Masked Lapwings, what else? Don't forget to look along the road edges too for finches, Willie Wagtails, Superb Fairy-wrens, Jacky Winters and Yellow-rumped Thornbills. How do you like all the Starlings?

Between 1.6km - 1.8km travel slowly and prepare to stop as different views appear and then enter a winding section with small dams worth checking and roadside trees full of sounds. At the 2.5km mark have another stop where it is safe to pull over for a final glimpse of the swamp - just near the sign to 'Jan and Bill's Place,' if they haven't moved.

Keep going, not forgetting to check the tiny creeks you cross, and from 3.3km you will be away from the water and have good stands of roadside trees where Eastern Rosellas reside in large numbers, flying up from the grass as you drive through. Maybe the Australian Hobby will surprise you here.

At 5.0km where the large dead trees stand alone there is sure to be a Brown Falcon, and at 5.3km you enter Noisy Miner territory as well as Eastern Rosellas, Grey Butcherbird, and Australian Magpie, with many trees containing hollows to check too.

Having passed 'Hujibah' on the left you reach 6.2km for another patch of bush so go on to the stockyards at 6.4km and pull in to the left. Walk back along the road or wander in opposite the yards. Rufous and Golden Whistler, Grey Currawong, Buff-rumped Thornbill, Red-browed Finch, Grey Fantail, Fan-tailed, Brush and Shining Bronze-Cuckoo, and honeyeaters.

Moving on again you reach the 7.0km mark which is where Bilyara Gallery used to be and an area rich in birds. If you didn't see the White-winged Choughs and Bronzewing Pigeons near the stockyards they could be around here. Setting off again prepare for the tight corner at 7.7km and before turning on to the Sapphire Coast Drive, look along the fences for Scarlet Robins, Jacky Winters or White-fronted Chats in the corner paddock.

Turning left on to Sapphire Coast Drive will take you north. Prepare to turn left again on to Old Wallagoot Road, with the Racecourse on the left. It is suggested you stop every one kilometre or so and birdwatch along the roadside. White-winged Triller, Leaden Flycatcher, Varied Sittella, Bell Miner, raptors and possibly Double-barred Finch. This will bring you back to the start.

On a few hours leisurely trip a species list of 70 upwards would not be an unreasonable expectation.
